My kitchen is my hobby

I have the best memories of cooking. My grandmother was an excellent cook and my mother too. They made tasty cakes and baked special biscuits. I can remember the smell of vanilla in their small kitchen. I wanted to become a cook too and my real love for cooking started when I was able to boil eggs myself. I was so happy!

Then I decided to study cooking. The only school for cooks was in another town so I went there by train every day. At school, we had to follow recipes exactly and it was boring for me. My teachers were tolerant, so I finished the school but I didn't like it very much.

I also learned many things at home. My mum was a great teacher and helped me a lot, but my grandmother didn't. She didn't really like it when I was in her kitchen and she hated it when I tried to cook.

When I left home, I was able to make some great meals. My wife and many other people think that I have a really good instinct for cooking. And I agree with them because I am not afraid of trying new things. Cooking is my art. It is how I can show my creativity. But it is not always fun. Sometimes it is very difficult and hard work, but easy things are boring.

I think it is amazing when you make the same thing but it is never the same. I feel free when I can do anything I want. In my life I am conservative, but in the kitchen I am an artist. Cooking is an important part of my personality.
